

Tunnelless Acromioclavicular Separation Ligament Reconstruction

- Dr. Chudik developed a techniques to perform AC joint reconstruction without creating large bone tunnels in clavicle and coracoid bones as commonly done with this procedure. Creating tunnels or holes in the bone risks later fracture complications and surgical failure.

X-ray of an acromioclavicular (AC) separation injury

AC joint repair/reconstruction which reduces the separation

STEVEN CHUDIK MD

SHOULDER, KNEE & SPORTS MEDICINE